Forty Good Fellows Are Wanted at Once

Forty more Good Fellows are needed at once to report to the Philanthropic department of the Woman's club, 214 South Seventh street, and adopt children to whom they are willing to play Santa Claus. The department is undertaking to provide dinner for the poor; but has not the means to make Christmas merry for the youngsters with presents. Twenty-eight Good Fellows have reported this week, and as an instance of how they come, ten Good Fellows at Linhour's store, who are working hard themselves, and are not wealthy, have sent in their names and agreed to dress dolls for little girls. It might spoil your Christmas to think that possibly some little child is unhappy and skeptical, because you didn't give it a present.

GOOD FELLOWS are requested to fill out the following blank and mail it to The Evening Sun or the PHILANTHROPIC DEPARTMENT of the Woman's club, 214 South Seventh street. I will be Santa Claus to _____ children. I will deliver the presents to "my children" myself. or I will want the department to deliver the presents to "my children." Signed _____ Address _____ (Be sure to designate whether you will deliver the presents yourself.)

They were engaged in gymnasium drill in a physical culture school. Frightened, the screaming girls were carried down the fire escape by firemen, several of the more daring climbing down after the firemen on their own initiative. None were injured. The girls sought seclusion from the staring thousands in neighboring office buildings, where they were supplied with more complete costumes.

TOBACCO COMING IN SLOWLY TO WAREHOUSE

A tobacco season is almost as important to Paducah merchants as the farmers and the effects of non-deveries is being felt here. Only a few loads of the 1910 crop have been delivered here to the Planters' Protective association and business is at a standstill. Several loads of tobacco came in yesterday and today from this vicinity and were delivered at the association's prize house in charge of M. M. Tucker.

Mr. Tucker said today that this time last year fully 40 per cent of the crop had been received and this year there has been practically nothing delivered. The continued cold weather has throttled all movement but a season is expected before long. Chairman John McKeage, of McCracken county, arrived today from his home at Woodville on business. He denied the report that he was going to Kansas.

I want to go home with my father." Several jurors smiled tenderly.

Hundred Thousand Per Minute is Record of Appropriations Made at Present Sitting of 61st Congress

Almost $200,000,000 are Apportioned Within Week—Debate on Tariff—Speculating as to Judges.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The house of representatives has been spending $100,000 a minute. In the first seven working days of the present session, the house appropriated almost $200,000,000, from the United States treasury.

The Indian appropriation bill carried $8,000,000; the rivers and harbors bill, $31,000,000 and the pension bill $152,000,000.

The house has been in session thirty-one and a half working hours. The expenditures an hour exceed $6,000,000.

Of course these sums are not unusual, and congress is compelled to appropriate for various purposes in lump sums. The appropriation measures are of first consideration at each session, because department heads have their estimates ready for committees to consider at once. Other matters are delayed.

Tariff Debate. Washington, Dec. 14.—The senate listened to the first tariff debate of the session and while, necessarily, the discussion was largely academic, it served to develop the important fact that some of the eastern senators among them Lodge and Aldrich, are willing to join their western associates in a piecemeal revision of the tariff.

The subject came up on the motion to refer to the committee on rules. The Cummins resolution providing for limitation of power to amend bills looking to the modification of paragraphs and schedules of the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Senator Cummins had the floor but was so often interrupted that the discussion was really a running debate. Senator Lodge declared his willingness to do all in his power to advance legislation for the amendment of any tariff schedule. Aldrich favored the amendment, but said he would prefer taking up the question by subjects rather than by schedules. He was emphatic in his opposition to Cummins' method of proceeding which contemplates the alteration of rates in both houses by joint resolution. Hale, who opposed such amendment, did not participate in the debate. It is expected he will be antagonistic to the Cummins program.

Much attention, was given to the right of the senate to interfere in the formation of house rules and of the senate to amend revenue bills, which under the constitution, must originate in the house. Aldrich announced opposition to any course that would circumscribe the house, and Cummins interpreted this remark as a declaration in support of the right of the Democratic house of the next congress to outline its own policy without interference.

The Iowa senator declared his desire to keep politics out of the question. Cummins spoke two and a half hours. He criticized severely the senate practice of building up a bill on measures supplied by the house.

In reply to Cummins' speech Aldrich remarked: "You are sailing into a very broad sea."

"Well, if I find myself in a port where my vessel is infected with some horrible contagion, I prefer the open water," responded Cummins. "In that event the senator is liable to remain in the open water a long time," replied Aldrich.

As Cummins proceeded to develop his opposition to senatorial amendments to the tariff bill he was sharply antagonized by Aldrich, who declared his doctrine "revolutionary." "It absolutely robs the states of their right of equal representation," he declared. Cummins contended that unless the rules of both houses are amended there would be no possibility of amendment of the tariff, with the consequence that it must remain as it is, and the "people's indignation and wrath will rise up and compel a general revision."

Dewey introduced a bill raising the salaries of supreme court justices from $5,000 to $17,000, circuit judges from $7,000 to $10,000 and federal district judges from $6,000 to $9,000.

SCHOOLS SELL STAMPS.

Will Elevate Others.

Denver, Col., Dec. 14.—Advice from Washington indicate that President Taft's appointment of a successor to Federal Circuit Judge Willis Van De Vanter, recently made associate justice of the supreme court, will elevate either Robert E. Lewis, federal district judge here, or Sylvester G. Williams, a Denver attorney, who was special examiner in the government's suit against the Harri-man railroads.

"NICK CARTER" IS DEAD AT KENNEL

INFIRMITIES INCIDENT TO OLD AGE CAUSE DEMISE OF SLEUTHHOUND.

"Nick Carter," the stud bloodhound recently purchased by the city died yesterday in his kennel several miles from Paducah in the county. The keeper found him dead when he opened the door, and telephoned the police. City Jailer James Clark and Deputy Tom King went to the kennel yesterday afternoon to investigate the death and do not believe the dog was poisoned. "Lady Carter" and "Iva May," the female trailers, are still in the country and are being watched more closely. The hounds were kept for a while in the city hall attic, but showed bad effects of confinement and were taken to the county, where they could have more fresh air and exercise. The city paid $325 for them, including $25 for the male. He was registered at 3 years old, but his looks belied his age.

The next meeting will be held in January.

STORY UNFOUNDED SAY CHAIRMEN OF TWO COMMITTEES

Mayor Smith Has Not Called Meeting to Consider Licenses.

Merely Seeks to Protect City on Bonds.

SAME BONDS TO BE REQUIRED.

"There is nothing to the statement that there will be a meeting of the joint finance and joint license committees with the mayor tonight," said Alderman Ernest Lackey, chairman of the joint license committee. Alderman Van Aelter, chairman of the joint finance committee, made the same report. Mayor Smith stated to a reporter for The Evening Sun that he had called no meeting of any council committees to consider saloon licenses.

All this was with reference to a story in the News-Democrat this morning that the mayor had called a meeting of the joint committees to impose a real estate bond on saloonkeepers desiring licenses for 1911. Yesterday the mayor advised License Inspector Robert B. Hicks to notify all the saloonkeepers, holding licenses, that if they desire their licenses renewed they must have their bonds and applications on file December 31, when their licenses expire. Mr. Hicks at the mayor's suggestion went to the city solicitor to have the notices prepared and proceeded to secure the signatures of the members of the joint license committee to the notices.

A year ago a license was granted to a saloonkeeper, before he had made bond. He engaged in business and before his bond was made, his license was forfeited by violating the law, and the city had no recourse on his bond. It was to obviate the same condition this year that the mayor made this suggestion.

It is understood the same kind of bonds will remain in use next year that are now being used.

RE-CONSECRATION

MAY BE NECESSARY AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Bishop Considering Question Since Kellner Murder Took Place.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 14.—Bishop Denis O'Donoghue, the head of the Catholic diocese of Louisville, has before him the question of whether St. John's church at Clay and Walnut shall be reconsecrated as a result of the trial of Joseph Wendling, he was convicted of the murder of Alma Kellner and sentenced to life imprisonment. As the commonwealth charged that the child was murdered in the church, this conviction fixes the place of the crime as far as the state is concerned.

Under the laws of the Catholic church, an edifice in which a murder has been committed is desecrated and must be closed by the bishop and not used for public worship or any of the offices of the church until the bishop has returned, and reconsecrated it. However, the bishop is the one who decides that the church has been desecrated.

The present case is unusual in that there was no positive evidence that the murder was committed in the church. Wendling was convicted on circumstantial evidence. The commonwealth did not attempt to show just what happened to the child after she arrived at the church, except that she was murdered, her remains buried in the school house cellar after an attempt to burn them in the church furnace, and that Wendling was her murderer.

The bishop may hold that this circumstantial evidence is not sufficient to establish that the church was desecrated. As far as known, this is the first case of the kind that has arisen.

If you mail a check for your city taxes it should reach the Treasurer two or three days before the last of the month, so he may be able to get it in his deposit on December 31. Otherwise it will have to include the penalty.

THE STATE INSTITUTE.

If, as the Rankin faction of the state board of agriculture declares, Paducah has not invited the state farmers' institute to meet here, such invitation should speedily be given; but if we mistake not, G. N. McGrew, of Livingston county, was authorized to invite the meeting. Mr. McGrew and Guthrie Wilson, of Bardonia, whose terms expire in March, withdrew from the meeting of the board and prevented a quorum, when the question of selecting a meeting place was proposed. They favor Paducah. The Rankin faction wants to go to Mt. Sterling or Lexington, on the ground that Paducah is too far away for delegates from that end of the state to attend. By the same course of reasoning, we suggest that Mt. Sterling is just as far away from the Purchase as Paducah is from Mt. Sterling. No section of the state stands more in need of the stimulus, which the presence of the institution would afford, than this section.

Messrs. Wilson, McGrew and Dent, of Letchfield, favored Paducah, and two members of the board are ill. They opposed selecting the meeting place until these two members were able to attend. The Rankin faction proposed to take advantage of their absence. This farmers' institute, which is to meet in February will select successors to Messrs. McGrew and Wilson, and it is suspected their successors will not be from western Kentucky. If the board meets at Mt. Sterling or Lexington, Mr. McGrew has been a consistent worker for the Purchase on the board and deserves all the support he can be given by this city.

THE HOUSE RULES.

The agreement of Democrats and insurgent Republicans to take from the speaker of the house the power to name committees, proves their consistency, though the Republicans probably will be glad to see the experiment tried in a Democratic house. The complaint against the appointment of committees by the speaker is that it places in his hands power to discriminate among congressmen, to reward favorites and punish insurgents. He also names the committee on rules, of which he is a member, and through the mandates of this committee, he can kill any bill he considers undesirable, or push any other bill through. This seems to be giving one man autocratic power; but it must be remembered that at any time a majority of the house disagrees with him, the majority may overrule his committee and his own rulings. That was proven, when the Insurgents and Democrats united in the last session and on appeal from the chair rebuked Joe Cannon.

There are two considerations involved in the house procedure. The congressmen are representatives of the people of their respective districts assembled there to enact such laws as they deem wise or their people demand. They should not be trammelled in the execution of the people's will, nor should the voice of the people be suppressed through the exercise of autocratic power by any one.

On the other hand, the majority party in the house is elected, it is presumed, by a majority of the people of the country in support of some particular policy of government. The specific outlining of this policy is left to the discretion of the representatives of that party, who elect a speaker and name committees of the house. Some head must guide legislation with reference to that particular policy; for it may be assumed that a lively minority will be seeking by every fair means to circumvent the plans of the majority and make political capital out of its enmeshment. By placing the rules committee in the hand of its chosen speaker, the majority party gives the head of the house organization power to carry through the policy of the party, and prevent a minority, by trading with individual members of the majority party, blocking the program. As long as the speaker is liable to be checked by the will of the majority of the house, he can be no more than a "czar" with a string to him at best, and when he transcends his prerogatives to the extent of antagonizing the majority, he is served as Joe Cannon was served in the last session.

The experiment of a loose organization under a caucus made rules committee, not answerable to the speaker, will be watched with interest by the country.

CENSURING THE PRESS.

A New York preacher declared that he found only 3,900 news items "worth while" out of ten thousand. It would be worth while to submit the same ten thousand items to some other person and find out just how many of those the preacher found "worth while" the other would discard and how many the preacher discarded the other would find "worth while." We wonder, indeed, whether the preacher in question and the hypothetical "other fellow" would agree as to the worth-whileness of the item concerning the preacher's investigation.

Then the preacher, who happens to be the Rev. Percy Grant, of New York, concludes with the profound assertion that the public may obtain a better type of newspaper "by suggestion, that is by refusing to read papers that will not print what is wanted."

The Reverend Percy has hit upon an original idea that has been known to the circulation department of every city daily and rural weekly since the printing press was invented. That is just what causes newspapers to print those "trivial, unwholesome and demoralizing" items—people refuse to take them unless they print what is wanted. Newspapers go to extraordinary expense, securing and printing news items to please all classes of readers. If the Reverend Percy could be appointed press censor or all people enjoyed the same kind of reading, newspapers would save a huge sum.

The press associations spent several dollars handling that item about the Reverend Percy's investigation, which in itself is somebody's notion of nothing to read.

STATE PRESS.

Mr. Taft Makes Good.
Mr. Taft's judicial appointments are always interesting and generally surprising in the sense that one wonders, when once the announcement is made, that so perfectly obvious and proper a solution did not occur to most. They reflect, more peculiarly, and in a degree more directly personal, the independence of mind of the distinguished jurist to whom it falls, with singular good luck for the American people, as we think, to make over, all but new, the highest and most responsible tribunal in the world.—Louisville Times.

Hasn't Seen It.

The Paducah Sun, the only Republican paper in this end of the state, has an editorial headed, "When Thieves Fall Out." and in this editorial it speaks of a press bureau of James B. McCreary, vilifying Hon. Ben Johnson's personal character. But on the other hand, we have noticed the papers advocating Mr. Johnson saying some hard things against Mr. McCreary and against a state Democratic primary election. This they should not do.—Mayfield Messenger.

He Has.

The suspicion is growing, that the shameful circular attacking Senator McCreary, sent out broadcast over the state, and another circular, said to attack Ben Johnson, though not in fact doing so, and sent out only to a favored few, emanated from the same source. It requires only a little thought and reason, to see how the depraved mind which sent out the first would consider it a good idea to cover his tracks if possible, by sending out the other. It is a disreputable piece of business, and when the truth is known, just punishment will be meted out to the guilty person or persons.—Ky. State Journal.

WONDERFUL STORY OF A WOMAN ABOUT A GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY

About one year ago I was taken to my bed with kidney trouble and remained for weeks an invalid. At times I suffered so badly and the pain was so intense, I had to scream. I gradually became worse and everything was done for me that was possible, but I did not get any better. I became so bad I could not sit up in bed and two doctors were called in, and after treating me for sometime without helping me any, told me my only hope was to have an operation. An operation was performed, but soon after I became worse than ever and thought that the rest of my days would be spent in bed. Friends whom my husband had written to in Portsmouth, telling of my condition advised him to get me Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root. He bought one bottle and from the first I began to improve, and in two weeks I was able to leave the bed. I took one more bottle and was entirely cured and able to do my work around the house and have enjoyed good health to this day. Friends who knew of my condition, consider my cure remarkable, and I never hesitate to recommend it.

D. A. R. Meeting.

The Port Jefferson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held its meeting for December Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. S. B. Phillips, 708 Broadway. It was a delightful occasion. The chapter has recently been organized. It was named for Port Jefferson on the Mississippi river and this was the second regular meeting. Two especially interesting subjects were the program feature so Mrs. Charles K. Wheeler gave the history of Port Jefferson, one of the Revolutionary forts of historical importance in the middle west. Miss Helen Lowry gave a "Comparative Study of Savagery and Barbarism." Six new members were received at the business meeting. The hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon.

In Honor of Guest.

Mrs. Sidney Loeb, of West Jefferson street, will be at home on Saturday afternoon from 3:30 to 5 o'clock in honor of Miss Ella Goldman, of Paris, Texas, who will arrive this evening to be Mrs. Loeb's house guest.

Red Cross Seals.

Club women in the surrounding towns of West Kentucky may secure Christmas red cross seals from Mrs. W. L. Brainerd, 506 Washington street, Paducah, who is chairman of the committee of the Paducah Woman's club having the Christmas seals in charge. Large or small orders will receive prompt attention of the local committee, who are prepared to meet these out-of-town demands.

In Honor of Miss Mary Louise Roberts.

The Jackson Sun gives the following account of a pretty pre-nuptial party in honor of an attractive bride-elect who formerly resided in Paducah:

"Saturday afternoon Miss Lula Hayley entertained at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. D. McKinnle, 486 North Tenth street, with a 'miscellaneous shower' in honor of her friend, Miss Mary Louise Roberts, of Covington, whose approaching marriage is matter of as much interest in Jackson as it is in her own home.

"The house was beautifully decorated in holly covered with bright red berries, red Christmas bells and red carnations, and the guests were received in the hall by Miss Alice Avant, of Hickory Valley, and Mrs. McKinnle. From the hall they passed into the parlor, where they were received by the hostess and the honoree, and thence into the library, where Miss Rowena Hawkins presented each with a trunk tag on which to write a 'good wish,' and after registering in a 'Bride's Book' (the handsome gift of Miss Hawkins) they proceeded into the dining room, where hot chocolate was poured by Miss Beale Newman and Lillian Cundiff.

"The door bell rang, and when the ring was answered a little steamer trunk was brought into the library and at once became the center of attraction. It was marked 'For Miss Mary Louise Roberts, shipped from Good Wish Town to Happyland over the L. C. & M. Railroad by way of Blissville, Lovel's Retreat, Amco, Concord and New Haven.' All of the tags with the good wishes on them were tied to the trunk, as was also a white slipper, an old shoe and a big bow of white ribbon. After reading and acknowledging the good wishes the happy bride-elect opened the trunk which was filled with packages containing the gifts of the guests, each tied with white ribbon. The first package taken out by Miss Roberts proved to be the gift of Miss Marie Wood, who, by this token, will be the next bride. A very happy half hour was spent in inspecting the many pretty gifts and then an elaborate luncheon was served.

Household Economics Open Meeting.

Prof. Metchnikoff has decided that the healthy individual should live to the age of 140 years. How far short of this the average man lives to a measure of his health. In this day of security from foes of the calibre of the mastodon man is inclined to grow careless, and to overlook the fact that as his boundaries have widened his foes have shrunk, and that though they have chiefly now to be sought by the microscope they are nevertheless to be reckoned with. This century is instituting campaign after campaign against bacteria with the ultimate success dependent entirely on the individual enlightenment—and the individual realization of his responsibility. The motto of the Federation of Clubs of Kentucky is: "Help us lower the death rate in our state" and through the civic departments of its clubs the work is being carried on in the different cities and communities.

The Household Economics Department says, "Let us make improvement of health our business" and to this end is trying to stimulate an intelligent interest and understanding of fundamentals on the subject. A most interesting and instructive program has been arranged for its open meeting Thursday afternoon at the Club House. It will be of value to every individual who hears it—because every subject discussed will have its personal importance and practical application. Medicine grows more and more preventive, as the science of health develops. Immunity depends more and more on resistance and hygiene and the laws which regulate resistance and hygiene are understandable to individuals of even average intelligence. It is of supreme importance to create a popular sanitary conscience, this is what this department hopes to do as all things else in the home are of no avail if the health of the members is unimpaired.

Educational Department Will Not Meet This Week.

The Educational club will have no meeting until after the holidays. The regular meeting for Friday afternoon has been called in.

RE-ELECTED CONGRESSMAN GETS INTO "LAME DUCK ALLEY" BY MISTAKE

BATES IS CONDOLED WITH, BUT HAD 1,000 MAJORITY ON HIS SIDE—DIPLOMATS SHOULD BE RICH—A NEW HOLIDAY PRO-POSED.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14. (United Press.)—They have changed the interior appointments of the white house—the internal architecture, so to speak—so as to provide a nice, comfortable substitute for the time-honored navigation of Salt river by politicians who didn't come back on November 8. One of the spacious corridors of the executive offices has been converted into an additional waiting room, to accommodate an astonishingly increased number of callers since the president's return from Panama.

Some astute individual discovered that about 90 per cent of this daily crowd who sought the presidential presence were "lame ducks" seeking some nice, soft berth to occupy after March 4. Although this is the open season for jobs, so many are the hunters and so keen the fervor of the chase, that the poor hunted berths are nearly all run to cover.

Naturally the white house is the preserve where the game is thickest. Energetic hunters frequent the executive offices faithfully. They do not intend to be far away when the president lets a job loose.

And so it happens that the list of waiting callers has been extraordinarily augmented during these last few weeks. A hundred or so job-hunters make a brave showing, but they have overcrowded the spacious reception rooms at the executive offices so that the patriots who have other business at the white house than chasing down vacancies on the government payroll get lost in the shuffle. The "jobbed" ones didn't like to rub elbows with the tentatively jobless.

So Secretary Charles D. Norton decided on the architectural arrangements above described in order to separate the sheep from the goats. Those who call to point out to President Taft their illness for such-and-such a job, and to recall to his mind their varied services for the party, are herded into the new reception room—which is merely a corridor screened off from the vestibule, nicely decorated with chairs and green palms. This new room has come to be known definitely as "Lame Duck Alley."

Senator Thomas Carter, of Montana, was the first of the clan of the soon-to-be-jobless to occupy the corridor. Senator Dewey, of New York, who will be succeeded by a Democrat, was another "lame duck" among the first to warm the leather on a chair in the alley.

Representative Kennedy, of Ohio, who was swirled out of place by that tidal wave of November 8, has been almost a daily caller. Representative Cocks, who succumbed with Stimson in New York, has been on the job. Many other injured members have been much in evidence.

But the saddest blow of all came when Representative Arthur L. Latta, of the Twenty-fifth Pennsylvania district, "breasted" into the executive offices the other day, still thinking gratefully of the 1,100 majority with which the constituents of his district had expressed their preference for him over a Democrat.

"Sorry you weren't elected, Bates," was the greeting he received from a brother member.

"Yes, it was too bad," joined in another.

"I sympathize with you," added a third.

"But I was re-elected," replied the astonished Pennsylvanian.

"Well, all the news we've read was that you went down," they replied.

Bates was a bit put out that his 1,100 majority hadn't attracted attention, but he went in to see President Taft.

"Bates, I certainly shall miss you next year," consoled the chief executive. "It seems too bad to lose you."

"But I am re-elected by 1,100 majority," shouted Bates. "Everywhere I go somebody sympathizes with me in my loss. I don't want any sympathy. I want congratulations."

And when Bates emerged, he served notice on the doorkeepers that he would refuse to be seated in "Lame Duck Alley."

The Diplomats.

If some young man, the son of poor but honest parents, has the qualifications for a diplomatic job and wants one, he probably can have it by applying to Secretary of State Knox and giving the necessary references. Secretary Knox has no objections to the rich. He himself can afford to maintain a city home, a country place and choose the livery of his coachmen and footmen to match the colors of his horses. But one must keep up appearances. Things have come to such a pass that the state department is rapidly developing into a target for hostile criticism as a plutocratic institution, not merely tinted, but smeared all over, with affluence, like Mr. Midas. To balance things, it is necessary to have a few young gentlemen who can consistently take up the high cost of living cry and give the touch of healthy democracy to this executive department, which is on the verge of being engulfed with luxury. The stink of trying to look poor is rapidly becoming too great for the state department officials to bear.

As things stand now—not mentioning the diplomats in the foreign service, who are guilty of being enormously wealthy—there are a goodly number of offenders of this character, right here at home. The secretary himself can afford to choose between the automobile and the horse. Assistant Secretary Wilson, when in need of relaxation, can run over to New York and jump on the Lusitania. Third Assistant Chandler Hale is not pinched with penny either.

But listen, how things have changed even in the lower ranks. Hugh Gibson, secretary to the assistant secretary, who ranks as a secretary of embassy on the diplomatic list, works 18 hours out of 24. When anything is wanted, Gibson gets it. If it is necessary to do some overtime work, the poor government clerk, who gets down at 9 o'clock, goes home, and Gibson, who is usually on the job at 7:30, stays and does it. When he gets 20 minutes off for luncheon, Gibson rushes over to the Metropolitan club, and bolts a wretched pheasant or bit of quail and hurries back to the grind again.

Another recent addition to the department's force is Arthur Orr, of Evanston, who was a secretary at the London embassy before he came to Washington as assistant to the chief of the bureau of information. Orr tries hard to hide his luxury.

For months he was not even suspected except by his Russian cigarettes, which are imported especially for him. But the terrible truth came out at last. Orr, in a fit of recklessness, rented a house next to that of Secretary Knox and wheeled up and down the avenue in his limousine, within sight of the secretary's drawing room windows. It is true that most of his wheeling was done in the early morning, when he was hurrying to work, or late at night, when he was coming home, but it is a large car, none the less, and the indictment stands. Both Orr and Gibson, when they have any leisure, which is seldom, walk up the street like anybody else, but all this is a mere sham intended to deceive the public. Huntington Wilson has even been known to ride in an ordinary taxicab.

So there you are. This is the problem that Secretary Knox has on his hands. There are openings for the poor young man, but the poor young man will not avail himself of the opportunities. He lights shy of a diplomatic career. The idea that a poor man cannot afford to take up diplomacy is spreading. It is a situation for the great American public to ponder. Think how discouraging it is for the poor farmer, who has gone back to spend a month or two of the summer at his old home in Europe to be obliged to place himself under the protection of the millionaire who represents his country!

A New Holiday.

A new national holiday is proposed in a bill now in the committee on judiciary of the house of representatives, that, if adopted, will make April 23 of every year a day of general jollification.

The bill proposes the setting aside of that date for doing honor to the name "America," as the cognomen of the whole continent. Plans for national, state and civic celebrations to be held each year are included in the measure, which is a lengthy document, outlining the means by which the name America was given to the continent, through the voyages of discovery of Amerigo Vesputi, the Italian explorer.

Representative Hamill, of New Jersey, the author of the bill, declares it will fill a long felt want. He says that the whole continent of America, from Hudson's Bay to the isthmus of Panama would join in celebrating the day.

SHIP EARLY.

Injunction of Express Companies to Obviate Delays.

On account of the congested condition of traffic, the express companies have issued instructions to shippers, asking their co-operation in the matter of care in wrapping, packing and marking, in order that there may be as little delay as possible and no unnecessary annoyance.

It is not amiss to venture that nine-tenths of the shipments that go astray at Christmas time do so because of careless marking, and nine-tenths of the packages that are delivered broken are in their condition as a result of improper packing.

If the public will follow these rules, issued yesterday by the express companies, it will find matters much more expeditiously handled. "Ship your packages early, by the 10th of December if possible. The express company will give you a small label to paste on the package, reading: 'Don't open until Christmas.' This will insure the package reaching its destination before Christmas and give the additional pleasure to the recipient of the gifts of having them on Christmas morning.

Use wooden boxes for packing. Glass or fragile articles should be well protected. It may cost a few cents more, but the danger of loss or damage is very much reduced. True, if the shipment is lost or damaged the express company will pay for it, but that will give your friend no pleasure.

"Write the address in full, state, county, city, street and number on the box or package with ink or crayon. Tags are frequently torn off and lost.

"If you want to prepay the charges, write the word 'Paid' in large, plain letters on the package.

"Insist on a receipt and see that the amount paid is marked on the receipt and package, and the value of the package declared thereon.

"Write your own address in full somewhere on the package following the prefix 'From.'

"Incise a card on each box or package with your name and address and consignee's name and address. 'This in order that, should the outer markings be destroyed, the inner mark will insure prompt forwarding and delivery.

There are but few who would not appear a trifle bored if compelled to listen a second time to a sermon. This weariness might be somewhat alleviated, however, if preachers of sermons would bear in mind the remark of a little daughter of a preacher who was asked the question:

"Does your father ever preach the same sermon twice?"

After a moment's contemplation she replied:

"Yes, but I think he preaches in different places."—Lippincott's.

COL. ROOSEVELT MAKES SPEECH

WAS GUEST OF HONOR AT BANQUET IN NEW HAVEN.

Baldwin Was Absent and Roosevelt Made No Reference to Recent Elections.

BROAD POLITICAL DOCTRINES.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 14.—His first political speech since the recent election was delivered here by Roosevelt at a banquet in his honor. Roosevelt made no reference to the recent elections or to current political subjects. He confined himself to a reiteration of the broad political doctrines to which he gave expression many times during his speaking trip the past summer, saying he was glad to make Connecticut just such a speech as he had made to former gatherings in the west.

Governor-elect Baldwin's place at the banquet table was vacant. He remained at home. There were no developments in Roosevelt's controversy with Baldwin during the colonel's stay here.

Roosevelt defined his attitude in politics thus:

"I am a radical, but I am a radical who earnestly desires to see a radical program carried out by conservatism."

He again declared faith in the regulation of corporations by the federal government, and defended his attitude by asserting that he sought not to controvert but to help in bringing about the fulfillments of that purpose.

Roosevelt was greeted with cheers when he arose and said:

"It seems to me that nothing could be a better augury of this country than that a Republican president should appoint an ex-Confederate of opposite political faith, as chief justice of the United States, and receive the unanimous applause of his countrymen."

Roosevelt then proposed toasts to Taft and Chief Justice White.

In order to avoid the crushing rush at the end of the month, would it not be a good idea to attend to your city taxes now?

FEDERAL UNION*LABORERS FROM THEIR OWN ORGANIZATION.

Forty-one Members Sign Charter—Officers Elected in January.

Federal Labor union, No. 13,104, composed of laborers, was organized last night at the Central Labor hall by the members of the Central Labor union, R. M. Miles and Charles Hayman officiating as marshals. The new union has a charter membership of 41 members and meetings will be held the first and third Thursday nights of each month. The officers will not be elected until the new year.

A LIBERAL OFFER.

We Guarantee to Cure Dyspepsia—If We Fail the Medicine Costs Nothing.

To unquestionably prove to the people that indigestion and dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well known properties of Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents. Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is prepared by a process which develops its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of the digestive fluid, and without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible.

The carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food. This perfect combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the complete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so certain of this that we urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on your own personal guarantee. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at—The Rexall Store.—W. D. McPherson.

SAFETY APPLIANCE*USE OF EACH DEFECTIVE CAR IN TRAIN UNIT OF OFFENSE.

Mere Coupling With Other Cars of Defective Cars is a Violation of the Law.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 14.—In an opinion sustaining the safety appliance act of congress and giving it a broader application than has heretofore been recorded, the United States circuit court of appeals for the Fifth circuit held that the use of each defective car in a train is the unit of offense. If as many as 20 cars, not equipped as required by the act, are used in one train, an equal number of penalties may be recovered, and the court held that even the mere coupling with other cars in a train of such defective cars, where such train is engaged in interstate commerce, is a violation of such law.

The case was handed down in the case of the government against the St. Louis and Southwestern Railway company, which came up on an appeal from the eastern district of Texas. The appellate court reversed the lower court, which sustained the contention of the railroad company that the hauling or use of each defective car must be separate or there is but one offense.

GOOD WAY TO USE HYOMEL FOR CATARRH.

Besides breathing through the inhalator a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling HYOMEL pronounce it High-o-mel from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and makes you breathe easier.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a teaspoonful of HYOMEL, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness at once, and makes your head cool fine.

You can get a bottle of HYOMEL at Gilbert's drug store and druggists everywhere, for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle HYOMEL Inhalant.

But bear in mind that a HYOMEL outfit which includes Inhaler and bottle of HYOMEL costs $1.00.

HYOMEL is guaranteed by Gilbert's drug store and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, rhinitis and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

Policemen Shoot.

The police held another practice shooting yesterday afternoon. Most of the patrolmen showed ability to hit the target although some of them could not hit the bull's eye. Patrolmen Kirk, Gillett, and Dunaway walked away with the honors. The practice shoots keep the eye of the patrolmen sharp.

Would it not be a good idea to see after your city taxes before the rush comes? Then you might overlook the matter and have to pay the penalty.

WEATHER BAD

AND SO WAS BEN JOHNSON'S DISPOSITION.

He Charged McCreary With Black Ingratitude and Desertion.

Shelbyville, Dec. 14.—Congressman Ben Johnson made a special trip from Washington to fire the opening gun in the gubernatorial campaign in this county. Weather conditions were bad and only a small crowd was present to greet the candidate for gubernatorial honors, but he apparently made a favorable impression on those who heard him.

Mr. Johnson's entire speech was devoted to a contrast of his own political record as compared with that of former Senator McCreary, whom he charged with virtually bolting the nominations of Blackburn and Beckham for the United States senate, and with permitting clubs of Democrats to be formed in the Fourth district to prevent his re-election to congress in order to influence sentiment in the gubernatorial election. He declared that McCreary's influence, if actively exerted, would have resulted in the election of a Democratic senator whose vote would have been cast for the people and against the trusts in the framing of the present iniquitous tariff bill, which Senator Bradley supported.

In his whole speech Mr. Johnson never alluded to any other candidate for governor except Senator McCreary, whom he severely excoriated. In concluding his strictures on the Madison county statesman, he said:

"I am not given to kicking a corpse, therefore will say no more about him."

Mr. Johnson recited at length his own services to the party; the sacrifices he had made in accepting the chairmanship of the campaign committee when other men were deterred by visions of defeat; his payment of the $5,000 debt incurred in the campaign, which was carried to a victorious conclusion in the face of tremendous odds.

In concluding he said he sought the office, not for profit, as he was prepared to relinquish a larger salary, but for honor, and assured his hearers that in the event of his election the poorest man in the state would receive as cordial a reception and as full a hearing in the executive office as the richest man.

Mr. Johnson was introduced by Judge Elliott B. Beard, a former representative from this county in the legislature, who incidentally announced his candidacy for railroad commissioner from this district, which includes Louisville.

People Notice It—Drive Them Off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

The olive oil in Olive Tablets is itself a natural laxative and has a healing, soothing, strengthening effect on the irritated organs.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel.

At all drug stores in neat pocket packages. 15 tablets for 10c; 45 tablets for 25c.

Made by the Olive Tablet Company of Portsmouth, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, Pres.

Cold Weather.

Wilton Lackey is still fighting lustily in "The Battle" and telling "tail ones" between times. The other day he went into his club shivering.

"The dreary November days are here," he chanted dolefully, "or almost at any rate, and soon we'll be frozen stiff, as we are every winter in this beautiful climate. The only thing that we have to be thankful for is that New York is not as cold as Montana. I can recollect one winter while I was out there, when a sheep, jumping from a hillside, became suddenly frozen on the way, and stuck in the air like a mass of ice."

"But, man," exclaimed one of his interested listeners, "the law of gravity wouldn't allow that."

"I know that," replied Lackey gravely. "But the law of gravity was frozen too."—November, Young's Magazine.

"Richard?"

"What is it, dearie?"

"What is a harem? I've never understood it."

"A harem, my dear, is a bunch of happy houses organized into a trust under the laws of the state of New Jersey."—Cleveland Leader.

"Criminal indifference" you say. And you are right. But how much worse is it than what you are doing every day? You have read these advertisements of the

for a year or more, telling you that you ought to know all about the company that carries your fire insurance, but have you done anything about it? Many have, but the majority of policy-holders have done nothing about the selection of a company. They are still "fiddling."

In the history of fire insurance in America, a large majority of the fire insurance companies organized have failed or retired from business. To be insured in companies like Weil's, that have been in business a hundred years and will be in business a hundred years from now, costs no more than to be insured in one that may go out of business next week.

THE CHRISTMAS SHOPPER
ROBERT DONNELL

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

THIS is for men only. If women read it they may laugh at the men, thereby causing family disturbances. It is about Christmas shopping, in which women are interested, but it is about men's shopping, not women's. So much has been written concerning the matter of women buying Christmas presents for men that it seems high time to show the other side of the shield. Among all the domestic tragedies incident to this life none is so poignantly pitiful as the annual tragedy that takes place when Mr. Man goes forth surreptitiously to purchase Yuletide gifts for his ladylove, be she wife, widow or maiden.

"What would she like, I wonder?" sighs Mr. Man. The sigh is long drawn out, like the linked sweetness of the first kiss. By the time he enters the big, bewildering department store which he has passed by a thousand times without entering and which is to him an unknown wonderland he quits sighing and begins seeing. The first things he sees are the scores of pretty salesgirls, including some not so pretty. But of course not one of them is half so pretty as the girl, wife or widow for whom he is going to buy that—well, now, what? He begins to sigh some more.

Ah, a box of gloves—the very thing! And yet what size does she wear? Suppose he got her three sizes too large for her dainty hand! Awful!

Then he goes to the other extreme—or extremity—and resolves to get her a pair of those beautiful satin slippers which he discovers on a counter. But, again, what size? If he should make the sad error of getting a single size too large she would stare sarcastically at him and inquire:

"Do you think I'm from Chicago?" Gloves and slippers are marked "taboo" in his calculations. Well and good. Her hands and feet are disposed of. Now, how about her head? Why, a set of those back and side combs—the very thing! All women like pretty combs, of course. But maybe his particular woman is sensitive and she might imagine that he imagines that she doesn't keep her hair tidy.

"Oh, I suppose she knows when she needs hair combs!" sighs Mr. Man, turning to the next counter. Her head is out of the question. So far as Christmas presents go, she is decapitated.

Well, that still leaves a considerable portion of the lady adaptable to adornments. "Where are the Cremonas?" asks the man. "We don't sell violins in this store," replies Miss Saleslady. "Go to a music house."

"Where are the Cremonas?" "Violins! I'm looking for a lady's house dress, a sort of wrapper."

"Oh, you mean a kimono?" giggles the girl, passing on the giggle to the next girl, who is likewise generous. "Didn't I say kimono, miss?" the man says a little testily.

"Third floor; take elevator," says the giggly girl. Mr. Man finally finds the kimono department. The stock is bewildering. He never imagined there were so many kinds of kimono in the world. He had associated the kimono with the Japanese and supposed they were all Japs. He couldn't fail to get one to fit. They were all so loose and flowing that most anything in the shape of a Japanese kimono would fit any woman as well as it was intended to fit. So at last the search is ended. Eureka! Found!

"The latest and daintiest thing is the French flannel kimono," says the chief saleswoman, whereupon she shows Mr. Man a late and dainty creation in pink flannel which looks no more like a Japanese kimono than a caterpillar looks like a butterfly.

"But—how can I know this will fit?" asks Mr. Man. "About how large is your—the lady?" asks the saleswoman. "Oh, about your size—hundred 'n' twenty pounds."

Miss Saleslady swells. She is quite plump to CHATting AMIABLY EN ROUTE.

"I guess you're mistaken about her being my size," she says somewhat scornfully, secure in her possession of the fact that she weighed 145 on the penny slot machine only this morning.

Mr. Man is embarrassed and helpless.

"I'll—be back in a few minutes," he says, having definitely determined to get a French flannel kimono.

Mr. Man goes down to the first floor, where the giggly girls abound. For ten minutes he wanders around through the aisles, casting longing glances at the salesgirls. Now and then he pauses and eyes one girl in particular. Finally the floorwalker, who has been eyeing Mr. Man, steps up and asks:

"Anything in particular, sir?"

"Yes, I'm looking for a girl about the size of my—I mean the lady I'm trying to buy a Christmas present for. That young lady with the billowy blond hair is just about the size."

"Well, what of it?" asks the floorwalker.

"I want to borrow that girl for about five minutes."

"The deuce you do?"

"Yes, to go upstairs to the French kimono section and try on a kimono for me—I mean for my—the other lady. See?"

The floorwalker sees; also he smiles. But Christmas is coming, so let him feel cheerful.

"Here, Miss Lou," says the floorwalker to the billowy blond. Miss Lou accepts the assignment gracefully, so the floorwalker, chatting amiably on route, and tries on French kimono after French kimono. At last one fits snugly.

Mr. Man pays the price. The dainty garment is bundled up and sent to his address, and his troubles are over. But are they? There's a sequel. It happens that Mr. Man is buying this kimono for the dearest girl in the world, who is to become his own and only wife on New Year's day. She has confided to him that she believes in useful Christmas gifts, something nice to wear, for instance, and he MR. MAN FOUND THIS NOTE.

Very well. It is three days till Christmas eve. That very night when he reaches home Mr. Man finds this note, left by messenger:

Mr. Man—All is over between us. I will send your ring and the dog collar and the bracelet tomorrow. I was in Goldenstein & Abraham's this afternoon and saw you making eyes at half the girls in the store; then I saw you openly flirting with a blondine creature. I dropped my veil down so you couldn't recognize me. I heard you say "third floor" when you went to the elevator with her. I went up in the next car and watched you buy a beautiful French kimono, for that horrid wretch! It is necessary for me to say more?

So you see there are tragedies in men's Christmas shopping.

But did this really happen? Ask the man.

RUSSIAN MONASTERY.

Establishment of Monks of Walamo on Island to Lake Ladoga.

The Monks of Walamo have a Russian monastery on a small island in Lake Ladoga. It would appear that in some measure the monastery is regarded, like the well known monastery of Mars Saba in Palestine, as a penal monastery.

The establishment consists of 30 priests, who are not monks; 15 deacons, who play an important part in the services of the Greek church, and 250 monks. These with the novices and laymen make a total of from twelve to thirteen hundred.

At the present time none of the monks live alone, but formerly solitary life was by no means an exception. The last hermit lived for over 50 years in retirement. He is buried near to his one-roomed hut, and pious pilgrims chip bits of the wooden covering to his grave to cure themselves of toothache.

It is amusing to read that the monastery cows are so unaccustomed to women that if taken to the mainland they run from them in fear, and will only allow themselves to be milked by men. The monastery is entirely self-contained and self-supporting, and even in the way of lake navigation—for there are numerous branch monasteries in the Walamo Archipelago—it is independent of outside help or aid. Even the stokers and engineers on the monastic steam launchers are monks, and it is a curious sight to see priests doing an engine or shoveling coal.—Travel and Exploration.

"What is a gentleman, anyway?" "A gentleman is a smoker who throws his cigar away before entering a car. Instead of trying to keep it until he alights."—Buffalo Express.

Miss Antique—I was born on a Friday. Do you think that unlucky? Miss Castique—Yes! If it was long enough ago.—Philadelphia Record.

Four Taste Qualities. Only four distinct taste qualities are discoverable by the human tongue, is the announcement of a scientist.

Sweets and salts, two of the taste qualities, are observable at the tip of the tongue, and in determining whether the white crystals be salt or sweet the tip of the tongue unconsciously is used. Sour and bitter flavors are the other strictly tongue tastes, and can be determined only upon their being carried back upon the tongue toward its root, when the sensations will be interpreted to the brain by the edges of that organ.

Dry substances that remain dry cannot be tasted, and many things remain tasteless to us, not because they are tasteless, but because they are not soluble in water. Again spices are differentiated through the correlative sense of smell. Holding the nose and chewing a raw onion and a raw apple by turns, the gustatory nerves will show little or no difference to the flavor of the two.—Chicago Tribune.

"How does that young man impress you?"

"Not at all. I never take kindly to a young man who wraps a twenty-dollar bill around two ones and then insists upon displaying the bankroll."—Detroit Free Press.

SQUAW'S LONG VIGIL.

Watched Three Days Without Food or Water.

To remain for three days and two nights on the desert keeping weird vigil beside her dead was the pathetic lot of Ullala Boniface, whose brave was accidentally killed by the discharge of a shotgun. The accident occurred far out on the desert. Miners, attracted by the squaw's wailing, found her standing beside the body, her two small children asleep near by.

A long ride was made to the nearest telephone point and Coroner C. D. Van Wie notified. The long, rough ride over the mountains and desert occupied three days and nights. At some stages it required three hours to cover a mile, so steep were the grades or so deep the desert sands.

Long before he arrived in sight of the corpse the squaw's wailing as she chanted the dirges of the Plute were heard. In the gray of the morning the Coroner reached the body. The sight of the woman standing erect at the foot of her dead brave, her black hair flying in the breeze, presented a dolorous picture, heightened by the chant of the dirge.

The squaw had broken all the brave's crockery against a tree, had flattened out his spoons and forks and other utensils on the rocks and had staked the two horses near the body, preparing to slay them over his grave. During the long vigil the woman had taken nourishment of no kind and would only eat after the body had been covered in the ground. —San Bernardino correspondence Los Angeles Times.

Games For Christmas.

There is nothing like a good game for dispelling every sign of stiffness at a Christmas party and making everyone merry. Here are a few of the best:

Christmas Candles.

A lighted candle is placed upon a table. Each player in turn is blindfolded and stationed with his back to the candle—about a foot from it. He is then told to take three steps forward, turn around three times, take four steps toward the candle, and try to blow it out. The efforts to do so are most amusing.

Age Game.

At a party it is always well to have one or two quiet games as a change from the active ones. For such games questions and answers offer about the best selections, as guests may be seated, pads and pencils given each, and the replies written below the queries, with a prize for the best and most complete list when these papers are collected. For the "age" game one sets such questions as the following:

What age describes some men when dinner is late?

What age is found at the football match?

What other age is required to face it?

What is the age people get stuck on?

What age is neither more or less?

What age does the farmer delight in?

What age is necessary for the clergyman?

What age do milliners delight in?

To what age will we arrive if we live long enough?

Answers: Savage. Mucilage. Scrimmage. Courage. Average. Aceage. Parsonage. Plunage. Dotage.

Parlor Football.

Take an ordinary hen's egg (as round as possible) and blow out its contents in the usual well-known way by making a small hole at both ends. Placing the egg on the smooth top of a large table the object of the players is, as in football, to drive it to the goal at the opposite end of the table. This is to be done by blowing it along, and requires a good pair of lungs as well as an indisposition to laugh at critical moments in the game. Of course, the players at the opposite end do their best to blow the egg back. There may be as many players as the table can accommodate. To prevent the trail shell from an untimely crash on the floor a row of small books can be placed along the edge of the table. One book a little further in than the rest will serve as goal.

Guessing Partners.

This game, which is sometimes used as a cotillon figure, can wind up in a waltz if desired. All the gentlemen, or all of the ladies, go out of the room, and those left stand or sit beside a vacant chair, having each agreed upon a partner. One at a time those without return, and after due consideration seat themselves in a chair. Clapping or hissing shows if the choice be right or wrong.

Who Am I?

On as many slips of paper as there are players the names of well-known characters in history or fiction are written. The players leave the room while this is being done, and re-enter one by one, a slip being pinned to the back of each. The wearer must not be told what character he is supposed to represent, but must try and find out from the remarks passed by the other players. These remarks must be quite appropriate to the subject. For example, if a player has "Shakespeare" written on the slip pinned on his back he might be asked why he wrote so many plays, and so forth.

Jack Horner's Pie.

This is especially designed as a finish up to the evening for any children present. It is a big dish covered with paper frills and a number of ribbons hanging out—red for boys; blue for girls. At a given signal each pulls to find a little present at the end of the ribbon.

When the company is jovial enough quite childish games will help to fill out the program. Oranges and lemons and musical chairs adapt very well for the youthful "grown-up." The whole object of such an evening is to promote variety and laughter.

"GUARDIAN SCHOOLS."
Solving the Problem of Caring for Children of Street.

In the overcrowded quarters of every large city where working people live there are always many small children who are allowed to run the streets without proper oversight. In the largest cities, like London, Paris, and New York, they are numbered by thousands. With such surroundings and under such conditions, it is not strange that a large percentage of them become criminals. The great question with the authorities is how to handle them and prevent them, as far as possible, from becoming criminals.

Switzerland has solved the problem, partly at least. In the City of Basel, for instance, "guardian schools" organized and supported by the state, are open every day, and from the middle of November till the middle of March every evening. They can hardly be called schools, but rather recreation classes.

Under the teacher's direction the children play games, tell stories, sing, crochet, embroider, sew and so forth. In good weather they are taken outdoors for games or walks. Each class has about 35 children in it, just enough for the teacher or guardian to handle comfortably. An inspector visits the classes frequently and makes reports to the school authorities. The state provides all the materials for the games and work, and also pays for the lunch-ones.

Basel has a population of 130,000, and last year 2,000 children were taken care of in these guardian schools. In addition to this work Basel has an organization known as the Play Association, which looks after the games for young people. There is also another society, now 25 years old, whose special business it is to give instruction to and provide recreation for boys on Sundays and in the evenings. Last year it had 24,000 children under its care. —Advance.

Paying Candidacy.

It actually pays, in hard cash, to be a Socialist candidate in Kansas. S. M. Stallard of Fort Scott, recently an aspirant for the governorship, swears to it. He declares he put nothing into the campaign—that the Socialists consider their candidates servants of the party and are willing to pay their expenses and a small amount in excess of that. Mr. Stallard says his expenses were taken care of either by the state or local committees wherever he went and, in addition to that, he frequently received $3 a day for campaigning. After the election was over he sat down and figured the thing up, finding that he was just $100 to the good. —New York Tribune.

young matron. Don't get excited. Keep right on with the coffee and I'll wash the lettuce. Do you know where the cook keeps the soap? —Lippincott's.

Something About Mistletoe.

The idea which many people have that the mistletoe's favorite growing place is the oak tree is a mistaken one. As a matter of fact, it was the very rarity of its appearance on that tree that gave it, when found there, a peculiar sanctity in the eyes of the Druids. In the purely wild condition mistletoe grows mostly on poplars. In civilized and cultivated soils it extends its growth, wherever it gets a chance the apple orchards and pear trees. The young seedling sprouts on a branch of its involuntary host, where acorns have been carried by birds, and have adhered by a sort of sucker-like fashion to the tissues of the tree on which they feed.

That Suit for Libel

Against the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Gave a Splendid Chance to Bring Out Facts

A disagreement about advertising arose with a "Weekly" Journal.

Following it, an attack on us appeared in their editorial columns, sneering at the claims we made, particularly regarding Appendicitis.

We replied through the regular papers and the "weekly" thought we hit back rather too hard and thereupon sued for libel.

The advertisement the "weekly" attacked us about claimed that in many cases of appendicitis an operation could be avoided by discontinuing indigestible food, washing out the bowels and taking a predigested food Grape-Nuts.

Observe we said MANY cases not all.

Wouldn't that knowledge be a comfort to those who fear a surgeon's knife as they fear death?

The "weekly" writer said that was a lie.

We replied that he was ignorant of the facts.

He was put on the stand and compelled to admit he was not a Dr. and had no medical knowledge of appendicitis and never investigated to find out if the testimonial letters to our Co. were genuine.

A famous surgeon testified that when an operation was required Grape-Nuts would not obviate it. True.

We never claimed that when an operation was required Grape-Nuts would prevent it.

The surgeon testified bacteria (germs) helped to bring on an attack and bacteria was grown by undigested food frequently.

We claimed and proved by other famous experts that undigested food was largely responsible for appendicitis.

We showed by expert testimony that many cases are healed without a knife, but by stopping the use of food which did not digest, and when food was required again it was helpful to use a predigested food which did not overtax the weakened organs of digestion.

When a pain in the right side appears it is not always necessary to be rushed off to a hospital and, at the risk of death, be cut.

Plain common sense shows the better way is to stop food that evidently has not been digested.

Then, when food is required, use an easily digested food. Grape-Nuts or any other if you know it to be predigested (partly digested before taking).

We brought to Court analytical chemists from New York, Chicago and Mishawaka, Ind., who swore to the analysis of Grape-Nuts and that part of the starchy part of the wheat and barley had been transformed into sugar, the kind of sugar produced in the human body by digesting starch (the large part of food).

Some of the State chemists brought on by the "weekly" said Grape-Nuts could not be called a "predigested" food because not all of it was digested outside the body.

The other chemists said any food which had been partly or half digested outside the body was commonly known as "predigested."

Splitting hairs about the meaning of the word. It is sufficient that if only one-half of the food is "predigested," it is easier on weakened stomach and bowels than food in which no part is predigested.

To show the facts we introduced Dr. Thos. Darlington, former chief of the N. Y. Board of Health, Dr. Ralph W. Webster, chief of the Chicago Laboratories, and Dr. B. Sachs, N. Y.

If we were a little severe in our denunciation of a writer, self-confessed ignorant about appendicitis and its cause, it is possible the public will excuse us, in view of the fact that our head, Mr. C. W. Post, has made a lifetime study of food, food digestion and effects, and the conclusions are endorsed by many of the best medical authorities of the day.

Is it possible that we are at fault for suggesting, as a Father and Mother might, to one of the family who announced a pain in the side: "Stop using the food, greasy meats, gravies, mince pie, cheese, too much starchy food, &c., &c. which has not been digested, then when again ready for food use Grape-Nuts because it is easy of digestion?"

Or should the child be at once carted off to a hospital and cut?

We have known of many cases wherein the approaching signs of appendicitis have disappeared by the suggestion being followed.

No one better appreciates the value of a skillful physician when a person is in the awful throes of acute appendicitis, but "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Just plain old common sense is helpful even nowadays.

This trial demonstrated Grape-Nuts food is pure beyond question.

It is partly predigested.

Appendicitis generally has rise from undigested food.

It is not always necessary to operate.

It is best to stop all food.

When ready to begin feeding use a predigested food.

It is palatable and strong in nourishment.

It will pay fine returns in health to quit the heavy breakfasts and lunches and use less food but select food certainly known to contain the elements nature requires to sustain the body. May we be permitted to suggest a breakfast of fruit, Grape-Nuts and cream, two soft boiled eggs, and some hot toast and cocoa, milk or Postum.

The question of whether Grape-Nuts does or does not contain the elements which nature requires for the nourishment of the brain, also of its purity, will be treated in later newspaper articles.

Good food is important and its effect on the body is also important.

NOTICED BALD SPOT COMING ON HEAD

Interesting Story of Consultation with Dermatologist and Successful Use of Cuticura. Also Case of Severe Itchy Poisoning, Relief of Which by Cuticura was Permanent.

"Nine years ago I noticed a bald spot coming on my head, and as I was only fifteen years old, it did not seem natural, as it was on the side of my head instead of on top. My mother advised me seeing a specialist and I did so, one of the best in Boston, and he said it was due to a germ I must have got at the barber's. He couldn't assure a cure, but by treating each hair separately by electricity, he said, the hair might come out white or gray, if it came out at all. He proposed giving me a treatment every month for six months at ten dollars a treatment. When I told my mother she advised using Cuticura and this I did, using Cuticura Soap and Ointment every day. In two months my hair commenced to grow, and in six months one would never have known there had been any trouble, the hair coming out being black, the exact shade of my own. I have never had any trouble since, and feel I can't say half enough for Cuticura. "Another member of our family was terribly poisoned by poison ivy, and every summer for six years the blisters came, burning and causing great suffering. We tried everything recommended by the best physicians, but with no good result. Finally we tried Cuticura and obtained relief in a very short time which was permanent. She has never had any trouble since, so Cuticura is invaluable to us, you see. E. J. Browne, 1 Remington St., Dorchester, Mass., Jan. 28, 1910."

WALTER CAMP'S ALL AMERICANS

CONTAINS NAMES OF THREE WESTERN PLAYERS.

Rules That Protect Players from Concussed Assaults Are Effective.

FORWARD PASS WINS GAMES

Ends—Kilpatrick, Yale; Wells, Michigan.
Tackles — McKay, Harvard; Walker, Minnesota.
Guards — Benbrook, Michigan; Fisher, Harvard.
Center—Chzens, Pennsylvania.
Quarter Back—Sprackling, Brown.
Half backs—Wendell, Harvard; Pendleton, Princeton.
Full back—Mercer, Pennsylvania.

Three westerners won places on Walter Camp's All-American eleven, which means in the current issue of Collier's Weekly, while several other members of western teams won honorable mention, and the style of play of the leading western eleven met with favorable comment. Benbrook of Michigan is placed at guard for the second time, Wells of Michigan awarded one of the end positions, while Walker of Minnesota is given one of the tackles.

Besides selecting his all-star eleven, Camp also comments on the season's play, the big games and the small number of injuries which resulted from the modifications made by the rules committee last year. Camp asserts that the elimination of the push and pull of the man with the ball did much toward lessening fatalities, and it also tended to open up the attack more by removing the assaults from the tackles.

By Walter Camp.

A strange season indeed, and one of weird happenings. But in spite of all this, the play was consistently interesting and brought out at times some very good quality of work both in individual prowess and team tactics. Best of all, the pounding on the tackle, which had been the most serious feature of the season of 1909 was practically eliminated by the new rule forbidding pushing and pulling, and locked interference. This gave the man playing this former star position a chance once more to bring out infinite possibilities of the place instead of merely standing up to be pounded to a jelly or made a chopping block of.

Not only have these rules eliminating pushing and pulling been thoroughly successful whenever enforced and reduced to a minimum last year heavy assaults on the tackles, thus going far toward lessening the danger of accident, but they have saved the rest of the team from that stupid, dazed condition that arose from this style of play. At the same time these rules have rendered the game far more a square sport in the sense that no one man was made a target for the united assault of five men massed and going with such a cruel force as to make the play a really unfair factor. The feature of the rules should be preserved in all hazards, as well as the kindred one forbidding interlocked interference.

It is rather a strange commentary upon the use of the forward pass that Yale and Michigan should each have won one of their most important contests of the year by means of this play, just as Yale won its main contest with one of these plays in the initial year of its introduction.

In Pre-Railway Days.

The Christmas turkey is so automatically supplied to the market and poultryers that we can hardly realize the difficulties experienced in the pre-railway era of coping with the demand for the popular bird. Norfolk was then, as it is now, the principal source of supply for the large English towns, and two or three days before Christmas, according to the author of the "Waswell flow," every available cart and other conveyance were enlisted into the service. Even the stage coaches were utilized, and, in addition to hanging poultry from lamp-iron to axle-tree, they sometimes filled the seats inside and out with them, dead turkeys being more profitable fares than live passengers.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

MAKING DUMB SPEAK.

Methods by Which Mutes Are Taught to Utter Words.

Scripture remarks that the following exercises are typical of those used in the best schools for deaf mutes; breathing through the nose and mouth are first taught. The teacher breathes through the nose on a slate or a mirror and throws the two moist spots; the child learns to imitate this. The mouth breathing produces one spot. The low position of the tongue is necessary for proper speech. It is taught by showing the position and using the mirror, and by a breath exercise. This latter rests upon the fact that the child cannot produce a good sized spot on the slate unless he keeps his tongue down. Tongue gymnastics are next used to limber up and train the muscles which have never received the proper development. The tongue is protruded, retracted, moved to each side turned up, etc. Tongue training preparatory to various consonant sounds is introduced. Vibration of the vocal chords is taught by feeding. The pupil puts his hand on the teacher's chest and also on his own. He thus learns to make a tone. He learns to raise and lower the voice and by careful drill is able to make a fairly good tone.

The physiological alphabet consists of a set of diagrams giving the typical position of the tongue and
